

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT K. OF P. MEETING

Business Part of the City Decorated For Annual Session of Seventeenth District.

HON. JAMES E. WATSON SPEAKS

Majestic Theater Crowded to the Doors While Eloquent Speaker Delivers Address.

JAMES E. WATSON.

In honor of the annual meeting of the Seventeenth Knights of Pythias district of Indiana in session here today the business section of the city is attractively decorated with American flags and streamers and banners and colors of that fraternal organization. Practically all the merchants gave the arrangement committee of Hermon lodge their hearty cooperation to make this a gala day with the result that flying flags and bright colors are everywhere exhibited.

The visiting members of the order began arriving in the city on the early morning trains and traction cars and by noon a large number were registered at the K. of P. building. Hundreds of others were expected this afternoon and the attendance came up to the expectations of the local committees. It is believed that the Majestic Theater, where the secret session will be held tonight, will be crowded.

This meeting has the distinction of the presence of Thomas J. Carling, supreme chancellor of the world. It is one of the first district meetings in Indiana to be attended by the highest officer of the lodge but he could make arrangements to come here as he was in the central west on a special trip. Union B. Hunt and James E. Watson, past grand chancellors of Indiana, are also here and spoke at the public meeting this afternoon. The other grand lodge officers of Indiana are attending the meeting. Judge John M. Lewis, grand chancellor of Indiana, is a member of Hermon Lodge and lives in this city which accounts in a large measure for the special effort to make this meeting one of unusual importance.

Hermon lodge left nothing undone that would add to the pleasure of the visitors or to the success of the meeting. For several weeks the various committees have been working hard and prepared an excellent program.

Prior to the public meeting at the Majestic the supreme and grand officers and other members of the order assembled at the intersection of the corner of Second and Chestnut streets and were photographed. The officers and other prominent members were seated in a semi circle with the visiting Knights standing back of them.

The Pythian Sisters served an excellent chicken dinner at the Postal building at noon and will also serve supper tonight.

The business houses were closed from 2 until 4 o'clock this afternoon during the public meeting.

The opera house was crowded to its capacity this afternoon for the open session of the district meeting of the K. of P. Standing room was at a premium. The meeting was called to order by George Bartlett, as the representative of Hermon Lodge. After congratulating the people of Seymour on their interest in the cause of Pythianism as shown by the splendid audience, he introduced Grand Chancellor John M. Lewis as chairman of the meeting. Judge Lewis in assuming the chair spoke of this as the best district meeting he had ever attended and congratulated the committee on the splendid arrangements for the evening.

Past Grand Chancellor of the Indiana K. of P. Lodge who spoke at the public meeting this afternoon.

After the audience sang "America" the invocation was offered by Rev. F. A. Steele, and a solo was sung by Miss Adda Gasaway which received hearty applause.

The welcome address was made by Mayor John A. Ross in a few well chosen words. The welcome was extended on behalf of the people of Seymour to the Supreme Chancellor of the world, who was present, to the state and district officers and to the visiting members of neighboring lodges as representatives of an order that is second to none for the elevation and uplifting of humanity. This welcome was not extended to be formal but rather with a deep appreciation of the high standard of this order.

The response was made by Union B. Hunt, of Indianapolis, who congratulated the people of Seymour and Hermon Lodge in particular not only for having the Grand Chancellor as their member but because he has been stirring up more interest in the cause of Pythianism throughout the domain than almost any other grand chancellor the state has had. Seymour has cause for pride in her guests today for these guests stand for the great cause of humanity, better citizenship and higher morality.

At 3:15 Hon. James E. Watson, of Rushville, past grand chancellor, was introduced and began the principal address of the afternoon.

Nineteen centuries ago the man of Nazareth came and taught the world that the highest thing in life is not force but love. There is not a statesman today worthy the name who does not realize that all the problems of the nations could be solved by applying this doctrine of fraternity—the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man—a doctrine as wide as the centuries and as deep as humanity—fraternity the perfect equality of man.

After all this fraternity in its practical application depends on the individual for these things are not done in the masses. We always want the other fellow to live up to the doctrine and then do as we please ourselves. This doctrine is an ideal. Your ideal of life is the pattern in accordance

LIVELY CONTESTS ARE ANTICIPATED

Reported That Democrats "Bosses" Are Laying Plans for Nomination of Slated Candidates.

FIGHT IS ON FOR UNDERWOOD

J. Ross Robertson After Nomination for Prosecutor—Chas. W. Steinwedel for Assessor.

Some lively and interesting contests among the Democratic candidates for the nominations of county and township offices are promised before March 5 the date of the primary convention. Evidences are seen that the party "bosses" have, as usual, prepared a slate and are already working quietly for the candidates they have selected to make the race. However several Democrats who were not expected to get into the contest have announced and may cause the "slate makers" some concern before the battle is over.

Two candidates, W. Preston Rider of Crothersville, and James B. Thompson, of Hamilton township, have announced that they will make the race for the nomination for representative. Both candidates are well known throughout the county and start the fight with their communities supporting them loyally.

J. Ross Robertson, Democratic county chairman, believes that he is entitled to the prosecuting attorney's job and has announced his candidacy for the nomination. He is of the opinion that this position belongs to Jackson county this term and that he is the man for the place. However, John H. Underwood, of Bedford, the present prosecutor, takes a different view in the matter and believes that he ought to be renominated. This is the first term Underwood has held the office since the counties of Jackson and Lawrence were placed in the same judicial circuit.

Charles W. Steinwedel, trustee, of Jackson township, has had a taste of public office and is now after bigger game. He has announced that he will make the race for assessor and is the first candidate to enter this field. More than likely, however, he will have some opposition before many days.

Five candidates have announced for county recorder. They are: Simeon L. Henderson, of Grassy Fork township, A. Henry Vahl, Adolph Hermann and A. A. Conner, of Brownstown township, and Joe Steele of Jackson township.

John W. Tormoehlen, of Driftwood township, the present commissioner from the first district, is after a renomination. As a commissioner is usually renominated without opposition he may have little trouble in getting to first base.

John F. Louden, of Owen township, and George Black, also of Owen, are candidates for nomination for commissioner from the third district.

Thirteen candidates for township trustees have announced. They are: Brownstown township, Worth Clark, John W. Bultman and William H. Stelpohl. Salt Creek: William T. McKain, Charles M. Lockman and Buell

JURY WAS UNABLE TO REACH VERDICT

Deliberated Almost Three Hours Over Evidence Given in Case of State vs. Dora Kuehnwar.

SECOND TRIAL MAY BE HELD

Defendant Stated She Was in Brownstown on Day Alleged Sale of Impure Butter Was Made.

After deliberating for almost three hours the jury that heard the case of the State of Indiana against Mrs. Dora Kuehnwar, who was charged with selling adulterated butter, was unable to reach a verdict and was dismissed shortly before 11 o'clock Wednesday night by Mayor Ross. It is reported that seven of the jurors voted in favor of conviction and five for acquittal. Deputy Prosecutor F. W. Wesner, who represented the state at the trial, said that the case would likely be tried the second time.

The affidavit which was signed by A. W. Bruner, state food inspector, alleged that the purported sale of impure butter was made on or about November 25 and the state introduced testimony to prove that the sale was made on that day. The defense showed by Mrs. Kuehnwar and several other witnesses that she was in Brownstown that day and a tax receipt bearing the date of November 25, was introduced as evidence. It was stated that the defendant came to Seymour and had only a few moments to walk to the depot before the westbound train departed. Witnesses for the defense testified that she did not visit any of the local stores on that day.

The defense also called a number of witnesses who told the jury that they had been using the butter made by the defendant and that it was pure and wholesome and that they had never received a pound containing impurities. It was also shown that the butter sold to Keach's Grocery was not made in the mold used on the Kuehnwar farm.

The case had attracted more attention than those usually tried in the police court. A. E. Bishop, state food chemist, said that he had made an analysis of the butter and pronounced it the worst sample of adulterated butter that had come into the state laboratory during the five years he has been employed there. The evidence showed that the butter was beyond all doubt intentionally adulterated but the state failed to prove to all the jurors that the defendant sold it. It is said that the blocks contained several impurities but that they were covered with butter of standard grade.

The evidence was completed about 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and court was adjourned until 7 o'clock when the arguments were made by the attorneys. Deputy Prosecutor Wesner contended that the state had beyond all reasonable doubt shown that the defendant had sold the butter and should be found guilty. Seba A. Barnes, attorney for the defendant, argued that the evidence had shown that adulterated butter had been sold to Keach's Grocery but that the state had failed to prove that the defendant had made the sale. The attorneys completed their arguments about 8 o'clock and the jury retired as soon as the instructions had been given.

SNEAK THIEVES GET AWAY WITH COAL AND CANNED FRUIT

Many Articles of Property of Small Value Have Been Taken Recently in North Part of City.

Numerous complaints have come from residents in the vicinity of Fifth and Mill streets recently relative to petty thieving which has become quite common. A number of persons report that coal has been stolen from sheds and several declare that canned fruit has been taken from their homes. Other articles of more or less value have disappeared from a few homes and the residents feel that it is time for the practice to stop.

It is believed that the thieves are acquainted with conditions in that part of the city, but thus far those who have lost property have been unable to obtain positive clues that would justify arrests. Some of the residents are guarding their property with greater care, however, and declare that they will be ready for the thieves in the future. Small thefts in other parts of the city have been reported during the last few weeks and it is thought that it is the work of local talent or of tramps who are passing through the neighborhood.

WHEAT MOVEMENT AS HEAVY AS IN HARVEST SEASON

Many Farmers Take Advantage of Good Condition of Roads—Price 95 Cents Per Bushel.

Most of those farmers who saw fit to carry over their wheat from last harvest are now letting it go on account of the present splendid condition of the roads. The wheat is uniformly of fine quality and although it was generally thought the price would be $1 per bushel or over by this time, still there is not much complaining of the figure now being received, 95c per bushel for sound wheat testing 60 lbs.

The movement for the past two or three days has been so great as to tax the local wheat dumps to their fullest capacity. At the Blish Mills the rush of wagon wheat is fully as great as at harvest time. The wagons began arriving there as early as six o'clock this morning and there has been a continual stream of wheat going into the dump all day with from one to a dozen wagons constantly waiting their turn. Some of the loads hauled here are record breakers. Holmes Thompson of Hamilton township, brought in one load this morning which weighed out 94.20 bushels or something over $90 for a single wagon load. As there is a good deal of wheat still to move the marketing will doubtless keep up as long as the roads hold good and the price does not decline.

PASSENGERS ARE SAFE AT YARMOUTH

One Hundred and Eight Rescued from The Cobequid, The Ill Fated Steamer.

CAPTAIN REMAINS WITH SHIP

Survivors Found Huddled Together in Captain's Cabin, Only Dry Spot on Vessel.

Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, January 15—The twenty-four passengers and seventy-two members of the crew of the Royal Mail steamer Cobequid, rescued yesterday, were comfortably housed here today and recovering from the effects of their long exposure to icy winds and waves. Captain Hawson and the remaining eleven seamen remained on board over night.

The Cobequid, impaled on Trinity rock, six miles off Port Maitland, was badly smashed and coated with ice, but the captain's cabin remained intact. The steamer Aberdeen stood by throughout the night, prepared to take off the twelve men if conditions should become too dangerous.

Captain McKinnon, of the Westport, the little coastal steamer which rescued seventy-two persons, last night, said today that when he came alongside the Cobequid, he found all the passengers and crew in the captain's cabin, the only dry spot on the steamer. The seas were breaking over the main deck. The Cobequid was lying headed to the westward, with the bow down and the stern well out of water.

From Tuesday morning until late yesterday all were imprisoned in the wrecked steamer, with the temperature below zero and no fires, save those built in buckets, which were carried about. Everything movable on the deck of the ship was washed away. The bridge, charthouse, companion ways and several lifeboats were swept away. Then as the water rushed into the boiler rooms and other compartments, barrels of molasses comprising part of the cargo were sent swirling away in the waters. Life belts were passed out and the passengers and crew could only wait. The wireless was out of commission for hours at a time, but the operator managed to send a feeble wave with the batteries yesterday morning.

Mrs. Allman Dead.

Mrs. Josephine Allman died Wednesday evening at her home after a long illness of tuberculosis. She was a patient at the Schneck hospital for some time and was only removed to her home a week ago. She was born in Brownstown township January 1, 1867. Her husband, George Allman and several grown children survive. The funeral services will not be announced until word has been received from a son in Washington, D. C.

The quick shipment of flour from the Blish Milling Company to New York City mentioned in yesterday's Republican was made over the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad out of this city, instead of over the Pennsylvania Lines as stated.

CHECKING THE LAW'S DELAY.

(St. Louis Globe Democrat.)

The Indiana Supreme Court appears to have decided on a practical way of discouraging the law's delay. In affirming the judgement of a lower court it added a 10 per cent penalty because the appeal was frivolous. The case grew out of personal injuries sustained by a railway brakeman fourteen years ago. The decision of the first court had been reversed by the Supreme Court after eight years and a new trial was had. From the result of the second trial the defendant railway company again appealed. The court held that it was hardly conceivable that an unbiased mind could disagree with the justness of the jury's verdict under the law, except that the amount of damages was not fully compensatory. It was partly on this account and partly because the case had been unduly prolonged that the court added the penalty.

Complaint as to the law's delays is no new thing. It was one of the exasperations of life mentioned in Hamlet's soliloquy. The quibbles of law-years have been satirized for centuries not only by laymen but by able members of the bar. Some of the evils have been corrected as a result of an aroused public opinion, but that many remain is conceded by the leading jurists of this country. The recent revision of the rules of equity by the Supreme Court of the United States, in the opinion of lawyers, will expedite business to an extent that seems improbable to the laymen. The American Bar Association has been urging legal reform earnestly and persistently and much is expected of its efforts. Impatient laymen regard as worthless many things that lawyers feel are essential safeguards of liberty and justice.

Some courts have won distinction by emphasizing the doctrine of "harmless error." Nobody believes a judgment should be reversed on account of "harmless error," but opinions as to what is harmless naturally differ. For example, the failure of a trial court to admit certain testimony might change the entire course of a trial. The aspect of many a trial has been completely modified through the admission of testimony that appeared insignificant at the time. It would take an omniscient Appellate Court to determine the harmlessness of such an error. The courts will continue to follow some rules and stress some distinctions that will appear ridiculous to the laymen. But the tendency to ignore hair-splitting technicalities is growing rapidly. The persuasive force of antique precedents is growing less. And the action of the Supreme Court of Indiana in penalizing an appellant whose sole purpose was delay will have a salutary effect. The usual interest rate on judgments is less than the current price of money. This puts a premium on staving off execution.

WILL COMPLETE PLANS FOR BIG REPUBLICAN LOVE FEAST

Judge Ed Jackson, Lincoln League President, and Chairman Sims to Hold Conference.

There will be a conference in Indianapolis in the next day or two between Judge Ed Jackson, of Newcastle, president of the Indiana Lincoln League, and Fred A. Sims, Republican state chairman, in regard to plans for the Republican love feast which will be held in Indianapolis, February 12.

That is the day on which the Republican state committee will meet for reorganization and the election of a state chairman, and the Lincoln League will also hold its biennial meeting. Both events will be worked together to make up the love feast.

The Indiana Republican Editorial Association will hold its meetings here on the same day, and the editors will make their plans for the coming state campaign.

Whether there will be a banquet in connection with the love feast has not yet been decided, but this will be disposed of, probably, at the conference between Judge Jackson and State Chairman Sims.

Another question that is still to be decided is the selection of a speaker for the love feast. It is the intention to have as the headliner one of the leading Republicans of the country, a man of national prominence.

Among the names under consideration by those in charge of the arrangements for the love feast are Senator William E. Borah, Idaho; former Governor Hadley, Missouri; Senator Jones, Washington; Senator Charles S. Townsend, Michigan; Senator William S. Kenyon, Iowa; Senator Albert B. Cummins, Iowa; Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, Illinois; Senator Theodore E. Burton, Ohio; Governor Hatfield, West Virginia; Senator Elihu Root, New York; Senator Joseph L. Bristow, Kansas and Senator George W. Jones, Nebraska.

Those in charge of the arrangements for the love feast say their object is to get the speaker who can make the most effective speech and instill the greatest amount of enthusiasm into the Republicans at the meeting. All these men, they point out, are good speakers, and they are having no little difficulty to decide on the one for the job.

NO CHANCE OF BOOSTING SALARIES DECLARES HONAN

Increases Made in Fourth and Fifth Class Cities Are Not Legal.

The hopes of newly installed officers of fourth and fifth class cities of the state that their salaries, by act of the 1913 General Assembly, had been boosted to the amounts received by officers of third class cities were blasted yesterday when Attorney General Honan reported to the state board of accounts his interpretation of the law.

Many requests for an opinion had been received by the attorney general and the state board of accounts. Among cities making inquiries were Newcastle, Brazil and Greencastle. An ordinance adopted by the Newcastle City Council last September fixed the salary of Mayor J. Leeb Watkins at $9000, but City Attorney Clarence Brown expressed the opinion that the act of the Legislature increased the salary to $1,200. The city attorney, engineer and clerk of Newcastle also were expecting to be benefited by the new law.

The belief of officials of fourth and fifth class cities that they were entitled to the increased salaries was based on a clause in the 1913 statute, page 937, which reads as follows:

"That the salaries or such city officers (fourth and fifth class cities) shall be fixed during the month of September preceding the election each four years.  and the amount of salaries of such officers shall be fixed under the provisions of the law now in force governing the salaries of such officers in cities of the third class."

"My opinion is that the quoted clause applies only to the manner of fixing salaries of officers of cities of the fourth and fifth classes by the Council," said the attorney general in his opinion, "and does not so apply as to require the same salaries for officers of cities of the fourth and fifth classes as are required for officers of cities of the third class, or require them to be fixed within the same limits."

"The language quoted is 'that the salaries of such officers shall be fixed,' and is not that the salaries of such officers shall be the same as those of officers of cities of the third class."

Attorney General Honan also gave an opinion yesterday that state banks and trust companies are authorized to become members of the Federal reserve banks to be organized under the new Federal currency law, but that savings banks can not become members because they have no capital stock and also because the statute provides how they shall invest their funds.

Brown, Carr: Joel B. Henderson and Alexander Carr. Owen: Horace Payne, William Henry Fountain and William H. Scott. Grassy Fork: Frank Killey.

Joel M. Lucas, Thomas A. Mullen and John Haman, of Brownstown township, are after the nomination for township assessor. In Salt Creek township the candidates for assessor are John W. Hanner, Abraham Rutan, Jr., and Early B. Lutes. William Utterback and Jacob Callahan have announced that they will make the race for assessor of Owen township.

Thus far the various candidates, especially for county offices, have been working quietly and have been endeavoring to secure a firm foot hold by getting into the contest early. Past experience has shown that the early birds are not always successful and because of the large number of candidates for some of the nominations their support will be divided and it will be difficult to forecast results accurately. It is understood that several additional candidates will announce for some of the offices during the present month which means that even a harder battle will be waged.

Prizes For Essays.

The State Board of Forestry is trying to get every one interested in the preservation of our native forests as far as can be done without loss to the owners, and the establishment of forest plantings on all land that is not suitable for successful farming, and offers forty dollars in prizes as follows:

For essays on Forest Influences: $12.50 is to be given for the best essay and $7.50 for the second best essay by pupils in the high schools of the State. Also, $12.50 is to be given for the best essay and $7.50 for the second best essay by pupils in the grades and country schools.

The essay must be written in ink and is not to exceed 2,000 words. It must be mailed to Elijah A. Gladden, Secretary of the State Board of Forestry, Indianapolis, Ind., not later than May 1, 1914.

Those desiring to enter the contest are advised to write for literature and rules governing the contest.

Case Decided.

The case of James DeGolyer vs the County Commissioners has been decided by Judge Swails in favor of Mr. DeGolyer. He was given the contract for a gravel road in Hamilton township but the commissioners withheld $1,170 in the settlement upon the grounds that the road was not completed for several weeks after the date specified in the contract. The contractor showed that he was ready to begin on the road but the contract was delayed because of the failure of the commissioners to appoint a superintendent.

SEVERAL HOODOO DAYS WILL BE FOUND IN YEAR 1914

Five Fridays Will Fall on Either
Thirteenth or Twenty-third Day of the Month.

The new year, according to the people of superstitious tendencies is to be one of hoodoos. The first hoodoo comes in the first month, Friday, January 23. The second falls in February—Friday, the 13th. The third is Friday, March 13, the fourth, Friday October 23, and the fifth, Friday, November 13th.

Christmas will come on Friday and Thanksgiving on Friday, November 26th. The Fourth of July falls on Saturday.

The year will have two months of five Sundays and four months with five pay days. March and November will have five Sundays, and January, May, August and October will have five Saturdays.

The year came in on Thursday and goes out on Thursday.

Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The February magazine contains 345 articles and 339 illustrations. In an article entitled "American Sponge Fisheries Worked by Greeks", by Leonora Beck Ellis, many of the details of an important industry, about which the average person knows nothing, are explained and illustrated. The latest developments in bungalow construction in southern California are given in "Artistic Concrete Pillars for Bungalows," by Albert Marple, while an extreme case of picturesque treatment in building construction is illustrated in "Odds and Ends Used to Make 'Futurist' House." In an article entitled "Stone Quarry Made into Landscape Feature," the manner in which an objectionable feature was made a part of a beautiful composition is described and illustrated. An account is given of the storm which, in November, 1913, swept the Great Lakes, resulting in the loss of 244 lives; of the storm in the North Pacific early in October, in which lives were lost and the city of Nome was almost entirely destroyed; and of the December flood that overwhelmed a large section of central Texas. The Shop Notes, and Amateur Mechanics departments of the February magazine contain the usual amount of good material, illustrated by sketches and diagrams, including a continuation of Harold Hinton's series on "Practical Telephony."

FORMER STUDENTS OF STATE UNIVERSITY WILL MEET

Prof. F. G. Baker Will Speak Here
Friday Night at Foundation Day Exercises.

John H. Kamman, who has charge of the Indiana University Foundation Day exercises here Friday night, has received notice that the address will be made by Prof. F. C. Bates, head of the economics department at the State University. The address will be delivered at the high school assembly room tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock and all former students, members of the Alumni Association and friends of the University in Jackson County are invited.

A similar meeting will be held in each of the ninety-two counties in the state Friday night. Foundation day is January 20, and for a quarter of a century a celebration of the day had taken place. This year, for the second time, plans for the alumni to hold meetings over the state and country the preceding Friday night have been made in order that faculty members could attend many of them and also be present at the university on Foundation day proper. Last year about forty members of the faculty attended the alumni meetings and they proved so successful they have been made a permanent feature of the Foundation day celebration. President Bryan will speak at the Indianapolis meeting.

Indiana university was known at the beginning of its history as the State seminary, and the date of its creation by the general assembly of the state is therefore taken as the birthday of the university. This is the ninety-fourth anniversary of the state school.

WAR ON TRUSTS TO BE DECLARED

The President Has His Program Well In Hand.

FOUR ESSENTIAL PROVISIONS

Message Will Declare Against the Interlocking Directorate; Will Favor Location of and Punishment For Individual Responsibility; Will Urge Clarification of Present Statutes and Extension of Government's Power.

Washington, Jan. 15.—An agreement practically has been reached by President Wilson and Democratic leaders of the judiciary committee of the senate and house to the anti-trust legislation to be enacted at the present session of congress. The legislation will be presented in the form of an administration measure, as was the tariff and the currency revision bills.

The anti-trust bill first will be introduced in the house with the president's approval, and every effort will be made to press it through to enactment in a comparatively short time.

Two reasons actuate the president in desiring to procure the enactment of the measure with all practicable haste. The one is that the last unsettling element in the business situation as far as congress is concerned may be removed. The other reason is that congress may adjourn early enough to allow the Democratic congressional candidates an opportunity to make thorough canvasses of their districts. The importance of the latter aspect of the situation was impressed on the president by the committee members who conferred with him.

The president first conferred with the Democratic members of the senate committee on interstate commerce, of which Senator Newlands of Nevada is the chairman. Later he saw Representative Clayton, the chairman, and Representatives Carlin, Webb and Floyd of the house judiciary committee. The president disclosed to these members the contents of his message to be delivered to congress next week, and then asked their views on the specific provisions which should be drawn to embody the recommendations which will be embodied in the message.

On the highest authority your correspondent can state that these are the four essential provisions which the administration bill will carry.

1. A prohibition of interlocking directorates of corporations among which a community of interests obtains.

2. A provision to facilitate the location of and punishment for individual responsibility for the creation of monopolies.

3. A provision to clarify and extend the section of the statutes which define monopolies.

4. A provision to create a trade commission as an auxiliary body to the department of justice for gathering information upon trade operations with respect to the anti-trust law and for observing if dissolution decrees of the courts are carried out.

The provision in regard to interlocking directorates will not confine itself to these alone, but will be extended to cover all individuals who exercise monopolistic control over combinations of business whether their names appear upon directorates or not.

CHANGE IN SCHOOL SYSTEM

Something Along This Line Imperatively Needed, Says Marshall.

Washington, Jan. 15.—"Five hundred thousand young people who hope to achieve success in life are being sent forth from the schools of this country annually and 400,000 of them are failing," said Vice President Marshall, addressing the council of the church boards of education in the United States, in session here. Mr. Marshall declared some change in the school system was necessary.

"The young people must be taught to understand what the republic is intended to be," he said. "It is generally believed that the distress and cause of unrest in this country is due to the preaching of the flannel-mouthed anarchist from the street corner, but it must be remembered that four out of five of the young people who come from the high schools and colleges are failures. This condition exists partially because it is impossible to teach the Bible in the public schools."

Representatives of fourteen denominations, with a constituency of sixteen million, are attending the meeting of the council.

German Women Ask Vote.

Berlin, Jan. 15.—A petition asking that the franchise be given to women and that they be allowed to vote at the elections for the imperial parliament and also to sit as deputies has been introduced in the imperial parliament by the German Woman's Suffrage union.

Mrs. George C. Lee, eighty years old, widow of a Boston banker, whose daughter Alice was the first wife of Theodore Roosevelt and the mother of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, is dead in Brookline, Mass.

THEY SHOULD WORRY

Royalty Offends by Pushing the Imperial Perambulator.

Vienna, Jan. 15.—Archduke Charles Francis Joseph and his wife, who was Princess Kita De Bourbon De Parme, are defying imperial etiquette by pushing the baby carriage in which their latest child takes her outings.

VILLA STRENGTHENING HIS ARMY AT JUAREZ

Arming Recruits With the Spoils of Battle.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 15.—Pancho Villa is to increase his army by 10,000. He declares the recent capture of arms at Ojinaga, together with arms and ammunition he has previously taken from the federals, will enable him to fully arm and equip that many men, and recruiting has been commenced in Juarez.

The United States army and Red Cross officers are making preparations for the reception of 4,000 Mexican refugees, federal soldiers, when they arrive from Presidio. The quartermaster's department is wiring to St. Louis and other quartermaster depots for tentage, bedding and other supplies, as there is not sufficient in the local depot to supply the refugee colony. The quartermaster's depot here is sending rations to feed the refugees daily. Food and water have been distributed along the seventy miles of road from Presidio to Marfa for the feeding of the federals as they march overland. An effort will be made to transport the women and children in wagons and ambulances, though this will be the most difficult part of the task.

There are not enough wagons and carriages in the Big Bend country to haul them. The wounded will remain in Presidio until all of the soldiers arrive at Fort Bliss. All federals are being vaccinated before being allowed to leave Presidio.

At Fort Bliss everything is in readiness for the reception of the refugees. The ground is piped with water mains, cook tents are up and the ground is cleared.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Reports from Port Au Prince say that the Haytian government is getting the upper hand again and that the revolt is almost crushed.

According to advices received at the state department the suspension of the interest payment on the foreign debt of Mexico is to be for six months only.

The senate committee on banking and currency will soon report a bill providing a plan for guaranteeing deposits held in banks in the new federal reserve system.

Handling $350,000,000 of Uncle Sam's money in thirty-five years without a debit or credit error, probably a record, is credited to George W. Evans, department of the interior.

Intense cold which has not been equalled since 1899, is sweeping the eastern states and seaboard. The official record was attained by Northfield, Vt., with 24 degrees below zero.

An offer of aid from the American Red Cross and a message of sympathy from Secretary Bryan were sent to the Japanese government following news of the volcanic disaster in south Japan.

Norway has the first woman member of the diplomatic corps. Miss Henrietta Hoegh, twenty-seven years of age, has been appointed first secretary of the Norwegian legation in Mexico.

It is said there is no likelihood at present of the default on the Mexican debt raising complications between the United States and those governments whose financiers hold the bulk of Mexico's securities.

Nat M. Wills, the best known tramp comedian in the country, has filed suit in New York to annul his marriage to Mrs. Heloise Wills, equestrienne actress, who appears under the name of La Belle Titcomb.

Homer McCord, twenty-two years old, "white slaver," who lured Mrs. Mary Dean, sixteen years old, a bride of a day, from her husband, was sentenced at Kansas City to five years in the state reformatory.

CURRIED VEGETABLES.

CURRY powder may be used successfully in the cooking of vegetables. Although curried vegetables are less well known than curried meats, they are excellent. Palatable dishes may be made by currying cabbage, cauliflower, beans, spinach, green peas, vegetable marrow. The vegetables may be cooked separately or two or three of them together.

One way to curry vegetables is to cut them into shreds and fry in hot butter in which curry powder has been stirred. They are then lightly browned and covered with cream, milk or gravy.

Nutritious Viands.

Curried Tomatoes.—Cut half an onion very small and grate an apple with it. Then add a dessertspoonful of curry powder and a gill of thick gravy. Stir all the ingredients together and allow them to simmer for a few minutes. Add tomatoes as required and simmer slowly till cooked. Just before serving squeeze in a little lemon juice. Place the tomatoes on a hot dish, thicken the gravy and serve with them.

An East Indian Recipe.

Curried Potatoes.—Cut two large potatoes in cubes about an inch square place in saucepan with one tablespoonful of melted butter. Season with salt, cayenne pepper and one teaspoonful of curry powder. Stir thoroughly. Then add one pint of hot water. Let cook till potatoes are well done, but not mushy. Leave enough liquid to form a gravy when they are served. If you like a milk sauce the way to make it is to put one-eighth of a cupful of milk in a bowl, add one-half of a cupful of cold water and blend in two tablespoonfuls of flour. Pour this over the potatoes and cook till quantity of liquid is reduced about one-half.

A Tempting Combination.

Curry of Mixed Vegetables.—Take three onions, half a dozen carrots, potatoes, a cupful of beans, a small vegetable marrow, cauliflower or any vegetables in season and also an apple. Cut all into even sized pieces. Fry these in a saucepan or casserole dish with some good beef dripping or butter. Add enough stock to cover them and stew until tender. Prepare a curry sauce by mixing a teaspoonful of curry powder, a teaspoonful of chutney and a teaspoonful of flour together and add to the saucepan. Allow the vegetables to simmer very gently in this for twenty minutes. Serve hot with a border of carefully boiled rice.

Mrs. Margaret Mitchener is better. Chas. Mithauer, who has been working at Indianapolis, is home visiting his mother.

Several from this neighborhood attended church at Elkinsville Saturday and Sunday nights.

Homer Fish and family visited in the family of T. E. Jones Sunday.

Lewis Pugh of Seymour is here visiting relatives.

Died, Monday, Jan. 5, 1914, Mrs. Mary Jane Fleetwood, wife of W. C. Fleetwood, aged about 65 years. She had been in poor health for several years, but became ill suddenly and her death occurred from heart trouble at 10 o'clock, a. m. She was a member of the Baptist church at Hunter's Creek in Monroe county. She was a thoroughly Christian woman and loved by everybody. She leaves a husband and six children, all grown, and several grandchildren, and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her loss. The remains were taken to Hunter's Creek Tuesday and laid to rest in the Lutheran cemetery of that place. We extend our sympathy to the husband and children.

Dr. Ackerman was called to attend a sick child of James Fleetwood Monday night.

W. C. Fleetwood lost a fine brood sow a few days ago.

CHAPTER XVIII.

A Challenge and a Confession.

It was very trying to be the target of so many glances. Instead of resuming their conversation the entire assemblage of Garavels waited calmly for their caller to begin, and he realized in a panic that he was expected to make conversation. He cast about madly for a topic.

His host helped him to get started, and he did fairly well until one of the Misses Garavel began to translate his remarks to the old lady and the ferocious cousin from Guatemala. As their replies were not rendered into English, he was left stranded. He knew that his whole salvation lay in properly impressing his auditors, so he began again and floundered through a painful monologue.

The night suddenly turned off swelteringly hot, perspiration began to trickle down his brow, his collar became a tourniquet, and he cast appealing glances at the silent figure hidden demurely behind the rusty old lady in the black harness. The look of mingled pity and understanding she gave him somewhat revived his fainting spirit, and he determined to stick it out until the family were ready to retire and allow him a word with her alone. But idle hope! Gradually it dawned upon him that they had no such intention.

By now his collar had given up the struggle and lain limply down to rest. The whole experience was hideous, yet he understood quite well that these people were not making sport of him. All this was only a part of their foreign customs. They were gentlefolk, reared to a different code from his—that was all—and since he had elected to come among them he could only suffer and be strong.

What he ever talked about during that evening he never quite remembered. When it came time to leave he expected at least to be allowed a farewell word or two with Gertrudis, but instead he was bowed out as ceremoniously as he had been bowed in and, finding himself at last in the open, sighed with relief. He felt like a paroled prisoner, but he thought of the girl's glance of sympathy and was instantly consoled. He crossed slowly to the plaza, pausing a moment for a good night look at the house, then, as he turned, he caught a glimpse of a figure slinking into the shadows of the side street and smiled indulgently. Evidently Allan had been unable to resist the temptation to follow him. But when he had reached his quarters he was surprised to find the boy there ahead of him.

"How did you beat me home?" he inquired.

"I have been waiting h'mpatiently ever since you went out. To be sure, I have had one little dream!"

"Didn't you follow me to the Garavels'?"

"Oh, boss! Never would I do such." Seeing that the negro was honest, Kirk decided that somebody had been spying upon him, but the matter was of so little consequence that he dismissed it from his mind.

Although Runnels had spoken with confidence of the coming shakeup in the railroad organization, it was not without a certain surprise that he awoke one morning to find himself actively in charge of the entire system. He lost no time in sending for Kirk, who took the news of their joint advancement with characteristic equanimity.

"Now, there is nothing cinched yet, understand," the acting superintendent cautioned him. "We're all on probation, but if we make good I think we'll stick."

"I'll do my best to fill your shoes." "And I have the inside track on Blakeley, in spite of Colonel Jolson, so I'm not alarmed. The break came sooner than I expected, and now that we chaps are in control it's the chance of our lifetimes."

Kirk nodded. "You're entitled to all you get, but I've never quite understood how I managed to forge ahead so fast. I've been mighty lucky."

"You don't really call it luck, do you?" Runnels looked at him curiously.

"I'm not conceited enough to think I'm a downright genius."

"Why, the Cortlandts engineered everything. It was they who arranged your promotion to the office in the first place, and they're behind this last affair. They have stood back of you at every step and, incidentally, back of me and the other boys."

"When you say 'they' you of course mean 'she.'"

"Of course. One has to recognize him, though, as the head of the family. And he really did have a part in it too. At least if he had been against us we never would have won."

"I'd like to show the Cortlandts that we appreciate what they've done, but we can't openly thank her without humiliating him. I'd like to give him something."

"Suppose we give him a quiet little supper some night and tell him frankly how grateful we are. He's the sort to appreciate a thing like that, and it would be a delicate way of thanking his wife too."

"Good! I'll speak to the other fellows, and now the acting master of transportation is going to shake with the new acting superintendent and wish him every success."

Runnels grasped the outstretched hand.

"Say, Anthony," he said, "we're young and we have a start. I have what you lack, and you have what I lack. If we stick together, we'll own a railroad some day. Is it a go?"

"You bet!"

With a warm glow in his breast the new master of transportation plunged into his duties. He really was making a success, it seemed, although it was a bit disappointing to learn that he owed so much of it to Edith Cortlandt. But this last advancement, too, was very timely, for it would surely have its effect upon Andres Garavel.

But his new work brought new troubles and worries. He began to sleep shorter hours; he concentrated with every atom of determination in him; he drove himself with an iron hand. He attacked his task from every angle, and with his fine constitution and unbounded youthful energy he covered an amazing quantity of work. He covered it so well, moreover, that Runnels complimented him.

This stress of labor served one purpose for which he was very grateful; it separated him from Edith Cortlandt and took his mind from that occurrence in the jungle.

Soon after his promotion he received from Andres Garavel a warmly worded note of congratulation, and some few days later an invitation to dine, which he accepted eagerly.

The dinner proved to be another disappointing ordeal, for again he was allowed no opportunity of speaking with Gertrudis and had to content himself with feasting his eyes upon her. But, although the family were present en masse, as on the former occasion, they unbent to a surprising degree, and he found them truly gracious and delightful.

Later in the evening he found himself alone with Chiquita and the old Spanish lady, and, knowing that the latter could not understand a word of his tongue, he addressed himself to the girl with some degree of naturalness.

"Make it yourself ready to fight tomorrow."

"I was sorry for you the last time, señor," she said, in reply to his half humorous complaint, "and yet it was funny; you were so frightened."

"It was my first memorial service. I thought I was going to see you alone."

"Oh, that is never allowed."

"Never? How am I going to ask you to marry me?"

Miss Garavel hid her blushing face behind her fan. "Indeed! You seem capable of asking that absurd question under any circumstances."

"I wish you would straighten me out on some of your customs."

She gave him an odd look, smiling timidly.

"As for tonight, do you attribute any meaning to my father's request that you dine with us?"

"Of course. It means I wasn't black-balled at the first meeting, I suppose."

She blushed delightfully again. "Since you are so ignorant of our ways you should inquire at your earliest convenience. I would advise you, perhaps, to learn Spanish."

"Will you teach me? I'll come every evening."

She did not answer, for the old lady began to show curiosity, and a conversation in Spanish ensued which Kirk could not follow. He departed with a feeling of exaltation. Beyond doubt his suit was progressing—slowly, perhaps, but still progressing.

His understanding of Spanish customs received a considerable enlargement on the following day, when he met Ramon Alfarez outside the railroad office. Ramon had evidently waited purposely for him, and now began to voice a protest in the greatest excitement.

"You 'ave insult me," he cried furiously, "and now you 'ave the insolence to interfere in my affairs." He paused dramatically. "Make it yourself ready to fight on tomorrow."

"What's the use of putting it off? I couldn't make your weight in that time. I'll do it now, if you say."

"No, no! Understand we shall fight like gentlemen. I shall keep you with any weapon you prefer."

"By Jove!" Kirk exclaimed in amazement. "This is a challenge. You want to fight a duel! Why, this reads like a book!" He began to laugh, at which Ramon became white and calm. "Listen," Kirk went on, "I'll tell you what we'll do; we'll fight with fire hose again. I suppose you want satisfaction for that ducking."

"I prefer to shoot you, señor," the other declared quietly. "Those marriage shall never occur until first I walk upon your dead body. As matter of honor I offer you this opportunity before it is too late. All Panama is speaking of those engagements to Senorita Garavel. Come, then, must I insult you further?"

His Stomach Troubles Over.

Mr. Dyspeptic, would you like to feel that your stomach troubles were over, that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently, and thousands have been, why not you? John R. Barker, of Battle Creek, Mich., is one of them. He says, "I was troubled with heartburn, indigestion and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over." Sold by all dealers.

ISLAND DISASTER WAS COMPLETE

Entire Population of Sakura Perished.

ASHES COVER HEAPS OF DEAD

Incomplete Reports From Scene of Japanese Volcanic Disaster Show the Island of Sakura to Be an Inferno of Smoke and Flame From Which All Signs of Life Have Fled, While Mainland Is but Little Better.

Tokio, Jan. 15.—Incomplete reports reaching here indicate that there can be nobody left alive on the island of Sakura, which is an inferno of smoke and flame. It is stated that the entire population of the three villages there perished. Many were drowned trying to swim to the mainland or rushing madly to the beach to escape the flames.

Although more than a thousand managed to get into boats, there were not enough of the latter, and many persons were suffocated while waiting to be rescued. The boats were prevented from using the eastern channel by the intense heat. It is rumored that one vessel set out with 307 refugees aboard and all were drowned.

The column of smoke from the volcano is three miles high. Some ashes have fallen here, 600 miles from the volcano.

It is stated that 600 houses collapsed at Kagoshima, the mainland port across the inlet, three miles away, during the earthquakes on Monday. The inhabitants were unable to keep their feet and those who escaped from the city did so on their hands and knees. According to some reports, Kagoshima is covered with ashes to a depth which is variously estimated at from two to fifteen feet.

Some reports from the stricken region say that the earthquakes have ceased and that the volcanoes are quiet again. According to other reports, there has been renewed and severe activity.

The city of Kagoshima, which was reported completely destroyed, fared much better than the earlier dispatches indicated. The city was badly damaged by the earthquake and by the ashes from the volcano, but the foreign office received a dispatch from H. Ijima, formerly minister to China, who lives in Kagoshima, in which the loss of life is placed at only ten persons killed. Thirty more were injured, he said. The dispatch added that the city had suffered severely in property loss and that great confusion prevailed.

Word that all Americans at Kagoshima and the rest of the affected territory are safe, was received from Carl F. Deichman, American consul at Nagasaki, ninety miles away. Mr. Deichman's telegram read: "A private telegram states that Americans in Kagoshima fled to Sendai. All safe." The Americans in Kagoshima included a number of missionaries.

The officers of the warships and of troops in and near the affected district have orders to search the district, particularly the island of Sakura, at the first opportunity. Accurate estimates of the loss of life are not likely until this official search has been made.

Private dispatches received here say that the first of the largest buildings of Kagoshima to be destroyed was the postoffice, which collapsed at the beginning of the series of earthquake shocks. Those in the building escaped injury, according to the dispatches, and the employees, with the help of soldiers from the barracks, put up a shanty in a field near the city and began the work of repairing the telegraph lines.

The barracks, temples and the governor's residence crumpled up after succeeding shocks. The soldiers in the barracks are now encamped in the squares. They have joined the city police in preventing looting and in the effort to restore some degree of order in the panic-stricken city.

Well over 1,000 refugees from the stricken district have arrived at Kumanoto, to the north of Kagoshima. Kumanoto and other towns to which refugees have gone are having difficulty in caring for them. Kumanoto itself is darkened by the shower of ashes from the volcano, according to dispatches thus far received. The railroad between Kumanoto and Kagoshima has been wiped out in several places and the work of repairing it is being rushed in order to get supplies to the Kagoshima district.

STRANDED STEAMER IS SAFE

The Position of the Cobequid Not Perilous and All Hands Are Well.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 15.—All hands are safe, according to information received here, on the stranded steamer Cobequid. Nearly all of those aboard have been landed at Yarmouth. The steamer Westport brought seventy-one ashore and the others came on the steamer John L. Cann. The decks of the Cobequid are awash. If the present weather continues the Cobequid will hold together. She is heading off shore. The Cobequid went ashore at Trinity Point, six miles off the mainland of Nova Scotia and fourteen miles from the port of Yarmouth.

BUYING TOYS FOR NEXT CHRISTMAS

Do you know that the toy buyers for the big stores are already on their way to Europe to buy the toys for next Christmas?

Incidentally they are keeping their weather eyes open for features to brighten up their next Christmas advertising.

This is an example of how merchandisers and advertisers plan "long ahead."

It shows why you always see a new note in advertising.

Advertising is the voice of business and business is invariably a Progressive. It does not wait for things to happen. It makes things happen.

The reader of advertising is always just a little bit ahead of the times.

William A. Morris, of Frankfort, candidate for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer, is in Seymour today with the Pythians and meeting some of the Democratic brethren as a side line.

INDIANA CORN THE BEST EVER GROWN

Expert Opinion Voiced at Corn Growers' Show.

SUPERB SPECIMENS SHOWN

And, as Usual, Johnson County, Long Famous For Its Prize Winning Corn, Swept the Boards, All the Grand Championships Going to Farmers of That Section.—Easy Victory Is Predicted at Coming Corn Exposition.

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 15.—Johnson county, long famous for its prize winning corn, swept the boards at the state corn show of the Indiana Corn Growers' association. It was a complete victory for the Johnson county farmers.

The grand championship ten ears of white corn was won by John A. Stinebrook of Franklin; the grand championship ten ears of yellow corn, by G. L. Kerlin of Franklin; the grand championship ten ears mixed corn, by C. A. Brown of Franklin; the grand championship for a single ear, by Harry Tilson, also of Franklin.

The grand championship single ear was a superb specimen of yellow corn, and the judges pronounced it almost perfect.

Arthur Tritch of Corunna won the championship on wheat and oats. Professor Leonard Hegnauer of the University of Illinois pronounced the corn at this year's show the best he ever had seen at a corn show, and predicted that Indiana would win an easy victory at the international corn exposition to be held this year at Dallas, Tex.

The Indiana Corn Growers' association at its annual convention elected James Kline of Howe, Ind., president of the organization. He will succeed Fred Palin, who has held the position for the last year.

Speakers at W. C. T. U. Rally Declare

Liquor Question Must be Decided by People.

SHOW DANGER OF DRINK HABIT

Resolution Declaring for National Prohibition by Constitutional Amendment Endorsed.

With the view of arousing greater activity in the fight against the legalized liquor traffic a temperance rally was held here today under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Representatives of the temperance forces in various parts of the county attended the sessions. The morning meeting was held at the Presbyterian church and was well attended.

A passage of scripture was read by Mrs. C. R. Hoffmann after the opening hymn was sung. Rev. D. L. Thomas, pastor of the First M. E. church, conducted the special thought, "Speak to the Children of Israel that They go Forward." He spoke of the advancement of the temperance movement and of the great importance of abolishing the liquor traffic for the benefit of the nation at large.

The proclamation declaring for National constitutional prohibition was read and heartily endorsed. The special thought for the hour, "If ye shall ask anything in my name I will do it," was conducted by Mrs. M. E. Baker. The audience was much interested in the joint resolution introduced into congress by Representative R. P. Hobson, declaring for national national prohibition.

The plans for the national constitutional prohibition amendment campaign were discussed by Mrs. W. F. Pfaffenberger. The members then presented their individual views on "How can we most efficiently carry out these plans." Mrs. M. T. Brandyberry conducted the special thought, "Before they call I will answer, While they are speaking, I will hear."

The afternoon session was also well attended and convened at 2 o'clock. The scripture was read by Mrs. W. F. Gerrish, followed by an address by Rev. W. A. Schruoff. His subject was, "Prayer a Power," and he emphasized the fact that if the temperance movement succeeds the forces must seek aid by prayer.

"Individual Responsibility" was the subject of the address of Rev. T. C. Smith, editor of the Baptist Observer. He said in part:

"On this subject one can hardly be frank without giving offence to political parties and to many church people. In political parties and in the churches there are millions of voters, honest at heart, but grossly mistaken in their use of the ballot as it bears on the liquor traffic. The ballot is the exponent of personal power. It expresses the voter's will. To vote for any man or party that allows, or licenses the traffic leaves the responsibility for its existence on the voter. No logic can refute this as we see it. Three men vote together, the brewer, the deacon, the preacher. All vote for a party that allows or licenses the traffic. Their ballots nestle sweetly together, are counted together. Two of these voters may ostracize the brewer, but their vote goes with his for what he wants. Nial Dow said very truly that "The liquor traffic would destroy the church if it could. The church could destroy the liquor traffic if it would." Why is the traffic continued? Too many fail to vote as they talk and as they pray. Anything but annihilation of the traffic is dawdling with an evil that destroys more lives every year than were killed in any year of the war of Rebellion."

Rev. T. J. Owen, who speaks tonight at the First M. E. church will make an address well worth hearing. He is a clear thinker and a convincing speaker. He has been pastor of the First Baptist church at Bedford for several years and is held in the highest esteem not only in his home town but throughout the state. It will be well worth while to hear him.

HIS LAST PUBLIC LECTURE

"Bird and Bee Man" Has Closed His Notable Campaign.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 15.—Isaac Washington Brown, the "bird and bee man," who has lectured in every state in the Union on the necessity of conserving and propagating the birds of the country and who prosecuted his research work for years under the patronage of Helen Gould, last night closed his career as a public lecturer in this city, where he started it thirteen years ago.

It was a whim of Colonel Brown that he close his career as a lecturer here because in the first public lecture he ever gave, which was delivered here, he made a prophecy and pronounced a warning which, he says, went unheeded, but the prophecy is fulfilled.

"Thirteen years ago in your city," said Colonel Brown last night, "I told you that unless we cared for and protected the birds of this country we would come upon the day when, instead of being able to boast that we can 'feed the world,' we would be compelled to import food products from abroad."

"Tonight I announce to you the fulfillment of this prophecy. Your press dispatches announce the coming of wheat from the Argentine, wheat and oats from Canada, potatoes from Ireland and Germany."

In closing his last public lecture Colonel Brown paid an eloquent tribute to Miss Helen Gould, declaring her to be "the peer of all humanitarians, a prophetic of a heedless people, a woman whose worth only generations to come can accurately measure."
